

Children's Newsletter

October-November, 2011

Dear Boys and Girls!

It's been several months since we wrote to you. Please forgive!! Even if you don't get a letter from us, I hope that you are continuing to pray for Guinea and for missionaries all over the world!

As I'm writing this today it is Veteran's Day. Maybe some of you have parents or relatives in the military. We're so thankful to those that help serve to keep our country safe and free. In the same way, we're thankful for missionaries that have gone before us that have helped to make things a little easier for those serving now. There was a time when going overseas as a missionary may have meant that you would never see your family again. You knew that you could go over to your new country and die from disease, or even be killed by people that might be frightened of you. If you have never read a missionary story before, why not find one and read about what their lives were like: People like Hudson Taylor in China, Amy Carmichael in India, William Carey also in India, and Jim Elliot in Ecuador all have fascinating stories of how they were used by God to change lives. God can use each one of us if we make ourselves available to Him!

We had some exciting news this month. Do you remember all the trouble we were having in Conakry finding a place for the church to worship? Each time the church found a place, the landlord would become upset and tell them to stop worshipping. They prayed that God would give them a place of their own in which to worship. Recently they had to again leave their place because the school that was letting them worship could not keep up on their rent. But supporters in the Kansas District worked to raise money for the church to buy some property in Conakry that has two large buildings on it. The church is working right now to purchase that building. Then they will have a place to call their own. We're so thankful to God for providing that! Pray with us that all goes well with the purchase and there is no cheating. And pray that God will bring many to hear His Word, and that the church can be a good influence on that neighborhood!

God be with you all!

Pastor Tim and Beth ><>